Chedworth is a quintessential Cotswold village in Gloucestershire, set in a peaceful valley a few miles north of Cirencester, with honey-coloured stone houses, a welcoming local pub and a strong community feel. The historic Church of St Andrew dates back to the 12th century, adding to the village's timeless atmosphere. Surrounded by the Cotswolds AONB, the landscape is ideal for countryside walks, rural cycling and spotting local wildlife.

The star attraction is Chedworth Roman Villa, one of Britain's largest Roman villa sites, where you can explore impressive mosaics, bathhouses, underfloor heating systems and a museum of artefacts that reveal life in Roman Britain. Nearby is the Water Shrine (Nymphaeum), an ancient sacred spring within the villa grounds. For nature lovers, Chedworth Nature Reserve offers woodland walks and a peaceful setting along an old railway line.

Within easy reach are charming attractions like Cerney House Gardens, a beautiful historic garden near North Cerney, and family-friendly spots in the wider Cotswolds such as The Model Village and Birdland Park & Gardens in Bourton-on-the-Water. Other notable places not far away include Sudeley Castle with its gardens and history, tranquil Painswick Rococo Garden, or ancient sites like Nympsfield Long Barrow along the Cotswold Way.

Chedworth is accessible by car via the A429 and connected by local bus services to nearby towns. The nearest train stations are at Kemble or Moreton-in-Marsh, making driving the most convenient way to visit and explore the village and surrounding countryside.
